

THE SOCIETY-BEE-HIVE

By MELLIFICIA.

Friday, Dec. 20, 1912.

WHO will be the first to give an Argentine Tango dancing party in Omaha?

Most of the other large cities have put their stamp of approval on the new dance. One of the largest social affairs of Minneapolis during the holidays will be a Tango dancing party, given by a young hostess who is one of the leaders of the most exclusive circle.

At the Charity ball, given this month in Chicago, everybody danced the Tango; some of them didn't know how, but they tried, anyway, and everyone had a good time, which is rather unusual at a charity ball.

Society editors of conservative old St. Louis have written columns pro and con about the different Tango dances. The leaders of the different sets in St. Louis are divided, but most of them favor the new dance. The charity ball was a great success there this fall, because the public wanted to see society dance the Tango.

"Why do you call it 'Tango Argentino'?" someone asked.

"To distinguish it from all the other Tango steps that are likely to get a following. This is the dance that was developed in Spain several centuries ago. There wasn't much but the skeleton then. It has a strong Moorish coloring, as everything in Spain has; but it had to go to South America to get its full development. In Argentina it was evolved from a simple Spanish dance to the more elaborate performance.

"It came to be the leading dance in Buenos Ayres, and was given a prominent place in all the most brilliant balls. It is said to be a keen interpretation of the Latin-American life and feeling. It is a dance that makes larger demands on your head than on your feet. You have to know history and social customs to dance it intelligently. And it is the most marvelous vehicle for expressing personality. The Tango Argentino has twelve primary steps, and then you and your partner work it out according to your own ideas, keeping it confined within the limits of the music. It has all the interest of the unknown. It has unlimited possibilities, and the stronger and more athletic you are the better the results. The best Tango dancers are the expert tennis players and golfers. It requires the elasticity and quickness of muscular response that is developed by athletics. In Buenos Ayres the aristocrats are the only ones who dance it, and they make it a dignified and courtly affair."

Leap Year Party.

"Better late than never" is the motto that the girls at the University of Omaha have adopted when discussing on leap years custom. On either Friday, December 27, or Saturday, the 28th, the young women of that institution will give a final leap year party. This affair has been put off until such a late date that it was planned, at first, to make it a truly "last chance" party, and give it on New Year's eve. The girls thought that by doing that that it would be up to the boys to see that they reached home safely, as the homeward journey would be made in 1913. This was impossible, however, as the freshmen have already made plans for entertaining the entire student body at a watch party.

Homelike Christmas Planned for Children

A new Christmas spirit is abroad in the city and the Associated Charity workers are much surprised and very pleased.

Instead of sending Christmas presents to the poor children of the city the well-to-do families are inviting the little tots who wouldn't have a very good time to their homes and giving them a regular Christmas in the presents and the dinner and all the candles and good cheer and everything.

More requests have been made to the charities for little boys and girls who want to have a good time than the officials of that organization have been able to fill, but as Christmas eve draws nearer they feel there will be a larger number of little fellows who will be forgotten.

School Children Play Santa Claus

Eighth grade students of Lathrop school, led by their grade teacher, Miss Jeanette Newlin, played Santa Claus to two poor families in the district, donating two automobile loads of good food and depositing money to their account at the "corner grocery."

At Farnam school Miss Carolina Scherer's class of seventh graders brought a 3-year-old child up from the Child Saving institute and showed him a real Santa Claus and a real good time.

PAYNE PROVIDES DINNER FOR THE HOUSE OF HOPE

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR HOLIDAYS

Christmas Celebrations Mark Close of the Fall Term.

MANY HAVE CHRISTMAS TREES

Ungraded Class at Cass School Gives a Splendid Program in English. Although Most Pupils Here but a Short Time.

Public schools closed Friday for the Christmas holidays. Teachers were given their pay checks for the month and many of them left in the afternoon for their homes in other cities.

Pupils in all the buildings celebrated the advent of the Christmas holidays with appropriate programs. Old Santa Claus was good to all good children.

In kindergarten Santa Claus appeared in person, but he sent his assistants to the upper grades. Christmas trees, Christmas pies, fishbonds and everything were prepared to decorate the rooms and give the students a keener enjoyment of the occasion.

Parents of manual training and domestic economy pupils will be given presents indicative of the industry of the youngsters, for in nearly all schools the pupils made some pretty presents for the home folks.

Spirit of Yuletide permeated the little northwest room on the second floor of Cass school Friday morning and eighteen children, some for the first time, took part in a real Christmas program.

The scholars, who are under direction of Miss Rose Bernstein, are ungraded, being all foreigners. The eighteen children represent six nationalities, including Chinese, Russian, Italian, Mexican, Bohemian and Polish. Some of the little tots have been in this country less than a year.

The program consisted of recitations and songs and loyalty that is seldom seen at any season of the year. A little Christmas tree in the corner was laden with beautiful and artistic objects made by the children themselves. Arts and crafts of various designs were hung on the tree by the scholars themselves. Miss Bernstein said she has never seen so much interest taken by her scholars in Christmas than that exhibited by this year's class.

The afternoon was turned over to the children to do just about as they wish. They played games and told stories and the afternoon of joy was climaxed by the distribution of many little gifts and bags of candy. Each child received some little gift in addition to the candy.

Sarah Cohn, a little Russian girl who has been in this country less than a year, recited "Sing a Song of Christmas." John Nowak, who has been in the United States but three months, gave a recitation. Pedro Perez, a Mexican, was the third and last one on the program. Although the scholars have been here a comparatively short while, the program was in English, and they surprised even their teacher by their aptness in mastering the English language.

Diggs Nolan Makes

Plea of Not Guilty in Munger's Court

Diggs Nolan, indicted by the federal grand jury for attempting to defraud Tom Dennison by securing his indorsement to a fraudulent draft for $1,900, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge William H. Munger in the federal court and was bound over to the January term.

Nolan is from Memphis, Tenn. He was arrested some weeks ago in Savannah, Ga. The grand jury in its indictment charged that Nolan had made an acquaintance with Tom Dennison some time ago, and that last summer he came to Omaha and represented to Dennison that he had just sold some real estate in Oklahoma, to one W. R. Miller and that on Mr. Miller's personal check he had a draft drawn on the Greenfield State bank of Greenfield, Okl. He produced the draft, according to the indictment, and produced also some correspondence which he purported to have had with the Greenfield bank in securing the draft. Dennison, it is shown, indorsed the draft on the word of Nolan. The indictment charges that Nolan represented himself to Dennison as H. K. George and had the draft made payable to that name.

Passenger Traffic Manager Fort of the Union Pacific is back from New York, where the Harriman officials gathered to deal with the court order requiring the dissolution of the merger of the Union and Southern Pacific roads.

When they come it is expected that they will be accompanied by President Sprule days ago. The bear from Omaha will cost the city $5. The bear which died was worth $400.
